

TABLA PERIÓDICA

Física y química 3º ESO

The image shows a blank periodic table grid. The grid is composed of several rows and columns. A central block of cells is shaded with a dark, textured pattern, representing the transition metals. This shaded area includes the d-block and f-block regions. The rest of the grid is empty, with no elements or labels present.